Making waves of media attention at the Palm Beach International Boat Show, Silent Yachts, builders of world's first fully sustainable solar-powered yachts, announced today that the Solarwave62 has arrived, from the historic first transatlantic crossing of a production electric yacht.

From its US headquarters in Miami, Silent Yachts said it will not only cover the United States and the Caribbean, but also Canada.

Much like the impressive electric technology, Silent Yachts has created one of the most notable partnerships in the marine industry to launch in US. This uniquely talented, partnership brings 50 years of marine industry, sales and marketing experience and a notably comparable 18 years of experience in the sports and entertainment industry.
